

The European Centre for Modern Languages
Promoting excellence in language education

A Pluriliteracies Approach to Teaching for Learning

European Centre for Modern Languages Workshop

Monday 13 & Tuesday 14 March 2017, Marino Institute of Education

A pluriliteracies approach builds on Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL) approaches to help learners become better meaning-makers, who can draw on content knowledge to communicate successfully across languages, disciplines and cultures. In this way it promotes deep learning and helps develop responsible, global citizens.

This two-day workshop is for language, science and other teachers, teacher trainers and trainee teachers. Participants will receive a Certificate of Attendance.

www.ecml.at/pluriliteracies

Experts: Professor Do Coyle, Sarah Blyth and Frederic Taveau

Professor Do Coyle is Professor of Learning Innovation at the University of Aberdeen and a leading international expert in CLIL. Sarah Blyth is a science teacher at the International School of Geneva and will cover concrete examples and tips for science teachers who have no L2 teaching experience. Frederic Taveau is a trainer in CLIL/Pluriliteracies and a language teacher at the International School of Geneva.

The workshop is offered by Léargas, the National Contact Point for the ECML in Ireland.

To register, email languages@leargas.ie by 9 March 2017.

